Social work assessment tools pdf

Shopping for tools? Consider the pros and cons of used or new tools before making your purchase. The biggest reason people buy used tools is to save money. While this is usually the case, there are many other considerations like the condition of the tools, safety concerns and missing parts. ResearchDo your research ahead of time to compare prices on new versus old. Head to a nearby hardware store and make a list of the tools you're considering buying. Write down key features and prices. You can also look online to get the information. Consider clearance and closeout items with reduced prices as the stores clear inventory. Packed with the information, you can determine your price range and the qualities needed to decide if new or used fits your needs. Where to Shop for Used Tools Where do you find old tools? Used shop tools for sale are found at yard sales. Many yard sales are promoted ahead of time and list some items that will be for sale. Target these yards, and expect a bargain. Pawnshops are another source for used tools. If you prefer to shop from home, check Craigslist and social media marketplaces where goods are sold. Used Tools Cautions Shoppers need to be cautious looking for used tools. Skip brand names except for tools that could create a safety issue like a jack stand. Brand names tend to have more safety features. What about premium brands and bargaining? If you do choose to purchase a popular premium brand in a used tool, don't expect a big discount. They're known for lasting a long time and hold their value. Sellers know this and are less likely to drop prices. Used Tool Conditions Inspect the used tools for flaws. Old woodworking tools for sale should still have smooth exterior features. Make sure all the parts are included. Moving parts need to move freely. When purchasing power tools like honing tools for sale, look over the electrical cords. Don't buy it if the cord has any nicks or frays, which could be a safety issue. Inspect the plug to make sure it isn't bent. Used Tool Accessories One more consideration to think about is if the used tool needs a battery charger, new batteries or any accessories. If you need to purchase these components, they can cost as much as the tool itself. Compare the costs with a new tool that comes with the charger and batteries already included. If you do stick with used tools, you can repurpose them for an eco-friendly way to shop. In many cases, the used tools are easier on the wallet. MORE FROM QUESTIONS ANSWERED.NET There are many social work assessment tools that help social workers with examining their clients and their situation. In this post, we will be looking at several visual tools that help understand the clients' relationships and situation in-depth. Each visual tool is explained with a template that you can edit online and download as an image, PDF or SVG which you can embed in presentations and other documents, or take printouts. What is Social Work Assessment? In the assessment phase of the social work process, multidimensional information on the client and his or her situation is gathered and assessed. Based on this assessment a plan will be devised to assist the client to overcome the challenges and issues. A social work assessment helps look into different aspects such as the client's mental health, education, occupation, strengths, finances etc. Social Work Process Assessment is the first step in the social work process. Assessment In this first step of the social work process, information on the client's strengths, needs, challenges, goals and resources are accumulated. By examining these aspects, you will be able to identify what needs to change and why, and generate an idea about what should happen next. Planning In this stage, it will be decided who will need to take action, when and how they will do it. Accordingly create an action plan that is flexible enough to survive the changing circumstances. Intervention In this stage you will be deploying your action plan. In an intervention, as a social worker you might be required to offer the necessary resources to help your client live independently, or provide advice and guidance to develop their skills. Review/Evaluation Review and evaluate the progress you have made with the implemented plan. Have you been able to achieve the results you expected? Has it changed the life of your client positively? There are various methods and tools to help facilitate the social work assessment process. In this post, we will look at several visual social work assessment tools that can help social work practitioners gather as much information on their clients as needed. Culturagrams Culturagram is a family assessment tool developed by Elaine Congress to understand families that come from different cultural backgrounds. It helps focus on 10 different cultural aspects and works best with immigrant families/ refugees. The culturagram consists of a diagram that examines the following factors; Reason for Relocation Legal Status Time in Community Language Spoken at Home and in the Community Health Beliefs Impact of Trauma and Crisis Events Contact with Cultural and Religious Institutions Holidays, Food, and Clothing Oppression, Discrimination, Bias, and Racism Values about Education and Work Values about Family Ecomaps Commonly used by nurses and social workers, the ecomap was developed by Dr. Ann Hartman who also developed the genogram. It is a tool that is used to visualize the personal and social relationships of a family with its external world. It helps convey the quality of these connections as well. The ecomap is commonly used with refugee and migrant families. How to draw an ecomap Step 1: Begin your ecomap with a circle in the middle. Portray the family members within the circle using a genogram - squares for male family members and circles for female family members. Mention their name and age in the middle of the shape assigned to them. Step 2: Represent the quality of the relationship between the family members by using one of the connection lines below. Step 3: Identify and add any extended family members or close friends. Visualize the quality of the relationship to them using the lines above. Step 4: Add the social and environmental systems such as schools, religious institutions, work etc. that have an impact on the family. Portray the quality of the relationships here as well. Personal SWOT Analysis A personal SWOT analysis is a useful self-assessment tool that you can use with your clients. While it should be done individually, it helps your client identify their strengths, weaknesses, threats and opportunities. The key to a successful SWOT analysis is asking the right questions. Read our article on Personal SWOT Analysis to Assess and Improve Yourself to learn how to use this tool along with useful questions that you can ask from your clients. Self-Assessment Template Another self-assessment tool that lets you explore a variety of aspects of an individual's life is this worksheet developed by Ignacio Pacheco on Social Work Tech. Self-Assessment Template (Click on the template to edit it online) Genograms Genogram is a tool used to visualize a person's family relationships and history. It moves a step further from the traditional family tree diagram and highlights generational patterns and psychological factors that affect the relationships. Genogram is a great tool to allow clients to explain their current circumstances that they might struggle with to speak openly about. For example, a client who is being abused, but hesitant to speak about it, can use a genogram to indicate his/her situation and open a dialogue with the social worker. Sociogram Sociogram is a tool that is used to visualize the types of relationships within a group. This will help you understand group behavior. It can alert you about people who are being isolated within the group or popular among many. Mind Maps As with the culturagram, you can use mind maps to capture, organize and categorize information you come across during interviews with clients in the assessment stage. Here we have listed popular social work assessment tools that you can use easily to understand clients and their situation and define their relationships with their families and the outside world. We would love to know if you are familiar with any other social work assessment tool. Let us know in the comment section below. Get started here culturegram social work assessment social work assessment tools social work process sociogram POST UPDATED 12/21/2019 Is this student appropriate for group? How significant are the student's presenting issues? Are my interventions making a difference? Being able to objectively justify our choice of interventions and quantitatively demonstrate their effectiveness is becoming increasingly dire as resources available to schools are constantly being stretched. In addition to establishing job security, social workers are ethically compelled to monitor and evaluate policies, the implementation of programs, and practice interventions (NASW Code of Ethics 5.02a). I've compiled a (non-exhaustive) list of resources for screening, assessment, and evaluation of practice. Some of the resources are measurements that are free and other resources are links to compendiums of measurements with reviews. 21 Free Measures of Risk and Protective Factors for Youth FREELY ACCESSIBLE Assessments for a range of potential intervention targets, such as students' perceptions of their school experiences, depression, social support, stress, and risky behaviors. These initial assessment tools were collected and developed as part of ongoing legislative work for Ohio's Family & Children First partnership. All of the tools in this pdf are free and available to reprint and use immediately. CASEL SEL Assessment Guide The Assessment Guide provides several resources for leaders and implementation teams in PreK-12th grade settings who are making decisions about selecting and using measures of student SEL. This includes guidance on how to select an assessment and use student SEL competency data, a catalog from which to select assessments, equipped with filters and bookmarking, and real-world accounts of how practitioners are using these data The RAND Education Assessment Finder A web-based tool that provides information about assessments of K-12 students' interpersonal, intrapersonal, and higher-order cognitive competencies. Practitioners, researchers, and policymakers can use it to explore what assessments are available, what they are designed to measure, how they are administered, what demands they place on students and teachers, and what kinds of uses their scores support. Mental Health Screening and Evaluation Compendium FREELY ACCESSIBLE Provides a comprehensive source of freely accessible no-cost mental health, social-emotional, and behavioral screening tools for children and adolescents. Strengths and Difficulties Questionnaire (SDQ) - FREELY ACCESSIBLE The Strengths and Difficulties Questionnaire (SDQ) is a brief behavioral screening questionnaire for 3-16 year olds. It measures emotional symptoms, conduct problems, hyperactivity/inattention, peer relationship problems, and pro-social behaviors. The SDQ can be used for screening, assessment, and evaluation of practice-making it extremely versatile. The questionnaire's website offers online scoring and report generation (paid feature). Measuring Violence-Related Attitudes, Behaviors, and Influences Among Youths: A Compendium of Assessment Tools - Second Edition - FREELY ACCESSIBLE Developed by the Center for Disease Control, this compendium provides researchers and prevention specialists with a set of tools to assess violence-related beliefs, behaviors, and influences, as well as to evaluate programs to prevent youth violence. Includes scales. Measuring Bullying Victimization, Perpetration, and Bystander Experiences: A Compendium of Assessment Tools - FREELY ACCESSIBLE This compendium provides researchers, prevention specialists, and health educators with tools to measure a range of bullying experiences: bully perpetration, bully victimization, bully-victim experiences, and bystander experiences. Includes scales. Compendium of Screening Tools for Early Childhood Social-Emotional Development Has some overlap with the CASEL tool, but the document is more user-friendly Social-Emotional Learning Assessment Measures for Middle School Youth Developed by the Raikes Foundation, this report identifies research-based tools that measure social and emotional well-being of middle school students. Includes sample questions of the measures. California Evidence-Based Clearinghouse for Child Welfare List of assessments used in child welfare-many applicable to school social work. Ohio Scales - FREELY ACCESSIBLE The Ohio Youth Problems, Functioning and Satisfaction Scales (Ohio scales) are instruments developed to measure outcomes for youth ages 5 to 18 who receive mental health services. To measure outcomes for youth, three parallel forms were developed (Ohio scales) for completion by the youth client, the youth's parent or primary caretaker and the youth's agency worker. The domains measured include problem severity, functioning, hopefulness and satisfaction. Key consumer-oriented materials have been translated into other languages, including the outcomes instruments. The translations currently available include Spanish, Chinese, Japanese, Korean and Russian. Single-System Design Analysis (SSD for R) - FREELY ACCESSIBLE Statistical software to evaluate practice. Created by social workers! Has training videos and tips via Twitter. DSM 5 Online Assessment Measures FREELY ACCESSIBLE For further clinical evaluation and research, the APA is offering a number of "emerging measures" in Section III of DSM-5. These patient assessment measures were developed to be administered at the initial patient interview and to monitor treatment progress, thus serving to advance the use of initial symptomatic status and patient reported outcome (PRO) information, as well as the use of "anchored" severity assessment instruments. Instructions, scoring information, and interpretation guidelines are included. I'd love to hear what other social workers are using to screen, assess, or evaluate practice. Leave a comment!
